KCNA Commentary on LKP Reckless Act

Pyongyang, April 4 (KCNA) -- Of late the true colors of the "Liberal Korea Party" (LKP) of south Korea, the party of traitors, have been more clearly revealed in disciplinary punishment on those who spoke ill of the Kwangju Popular Uprising.

As already known, in February three "lawmakers" from LKP claimed that the uprising was a riot raised by the north's special forces and that "May 18 persons of merit" were "a group of monsters" and described Chun Doo Hwan who suppressed the uprising as "hero", enraging the south Korean people.

The LKP coteries claimed that their remarks did not represent the official stand of the party and that there could exist differing interpretations of the historical fact so as to talk themselves out of difficulty. But they, upset by the bitter condemnation by the people from all walks of life, vowed to discipline them in accordance with the procedures in a bid to deceive the public.

Later they said that "other parties can use it in the by-election, and let the disciplinary punishment stand over after the by-election and then made the three members of the ethics investigation advisory committee of the "National Assembly" nominated by them resign so that the "National Assembly" failed to discuss the disciplinary measures against those who made reckless remarks.

All the facts clearly show that LKP coteries are immersed in avoiding the punishment by deception and procrastination and seeking their political ambition without guilty conscience about an insult to justice, truth and democratic spirit.

This is the true colors of the conservative and traitorous group that can never be seen otherwise.

The group of ultra-rightist conservatives hailing from the "Liberal Party" of Syngman Rhee set up and backed up the fascist dictatorial regimes, taking the lead in making the whole of south Korea a graveyard of human rights and democracy.

It was LKP ancestors who put Kwangju in a pool of blood under the lethal order that "you do not mind killing 70 percent of Kwangju citizens" and who positively supported the vicious regime of military gangsters.

LKP coteries, the descendants of the military fascist clique, have distorted and covered up the May 18 historical fact and insulted the victims so as to prevent the probe into the truth behind the uprising.

It is a tragicomedy that the group of traitors, who are trying to conceal their blood-stained past and revive the fascist dictatorship and defending those who spoke ill of the May 18 uprising, are talking about the "impartiality of disciplinary punishment" and "ethics investigation".

Unless the criminal LKP, the malignant tumor of the south Korean society, is removed, the second Kwangju massacre will be a matter of time.

The south Korean people will push ahead with their vigorous struggle to prove that the desperate efforts of the conservative and traitorous group are in vain to avoid the punishment by history. -0-
