Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un Makes Important Conclusion at 2nd Conference of Secretaries of Primary Committees of WPK

Kim Jong Un, general secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea, made an important conclusion "Secretaries of Primary Party Committees Should Become Genuine Political Workers of the Motherly Party" at the 2nd Conference of Secretaries of Primary Committees of the Workers' Party of Korea (WPK) on February 28.

Saying that the entire Party and all the people pin very great expectations on the current conference of secretaries of the primary Party committees, the second of its kind in the history of the WPK, the respected

Comrade Kim Jong Un referred to the significance of the conference convened at a crucial time of our revolution.

A primary Party committee is the organization that is directly responsible for protecting the political life of the Party members and other working people and its role decides the development of a unit and improvement of the livelihood of its employees, he said, adding that's why everyone pays attention to what tasks will be set forth at the conference and what change made in the future work of the primary Party committee.

Saying that it is possible to strengthen the whole Party and bring about an upswing on all fronts of socialist construction only when all the primary Party committees, the lower-echelon organizations of the Party and main fighting units for implementing the Party's policies, are well prepared and active, he stressed that in the light of that aspect it is of great significance at this crucial time to comprehensively examine and judge once again the fighting efficiency of the primary Party organizations and instill the idea and strategic intention of the Party Central Committee into the secretaries of the primary Party committees.

He appreciated that the conference again established a unanimous view on the importance and urgency of improving the work of the primary Party committees, analyzed and reviewed in detail the achievements and defects in the course of strengthening the primary Party committees and deeply discussed realistic ways.

He summarized the clear and positive changes made in the work of the primary Party committees in the past five years, including the fact that all the primary Party committees have focused their work on turning the units in their charge into the honest ones sharing idea and intention with the Party Central Committee and acting in concert with it, while exercising firm control and guidance over every work, ranging from the setting of goals to review and estimation, out of the firm stand that they should implement the Party's decisions and national economic plans without fail in keeping with their mission as the political staffs of the relevant units.

Saying in excited tones that there are many full-time Party officials within the WPK but secretaries of the primary Party committees take the greatest trouble as they are responsible for dealing with all sorts of affairs, he stressed that the foundations for strengthening the whole Party and implementing the Party's policies have been firmly cemented and the units representing the times increase, thanks to the devoted efforts of the secretaries of the primary Party committees who more deeply awakened themselves to their mission and duty to fulfill the solemn demands of the Party and the revolution.

He stressed the importance of sternly reviewing not only the past achievements but also the defects and drawing a lesson from them, for the conference is aimed at future development.

Saying that the building of the Party and its activities have further intensified in recent years and fresh innovations, bold creation and steady progress formed the main current of the times, but there still exist many serious defects in the work of secretaries of primary Party committees, he pointed out their universal mistakes.

Recalling that the conference rigorously reviewed the past work of secretaries of primary Party committees and discussed in depth the issues concerning the development of their work, he stressed the need for all the secretaries of the primary Party committees to innovate their work, as intended by the Party Central Committee and as required by the developing reality, while thoroughly getting rid of the negative elements latent in their work.

He referred to the important tasks to be upheld and fulfilled primarily at present by the secretaries of the primary Party committees, the political officials of the Party devotedly serving the people.

Saying that it is the steadfast will and the ultimate goal of the Party to consistently carry on the revolution and construction by dint of trust in and love for the people, unconditionally serve the people and build an ideal communist society for the people without fail, he stressed that our Party struggles to protect and support the people with sincerity, bring happiness to them and preserve their interests, not for any ism or prestige.

He pointed out that every line and policy put forward by the Party, its tested leadership and invincible fighting efficiency and our style socialist construction powerfully led by it are all characterized by the ideals of "The People Are God" and "Devoted Service for the People's Wellbeing."

He said that to be the Party of the people, the Party devotedly serving the people is the single reason of our Party's existence, its supreme symbol and permanent nature.

He stressed that our Party's goal to become the true people's Party bestowing all sorts of loving care on the people and its creed to become the Party that goes to great pains for the people can never change.

He said that the main purpose of building a new world on this land despite difficulties is not to demonstrate that we are capable of overcoming difficulties but to take care of the people with warmer sincerity and bring the happiest life to them.

Saying that the secretaries of the primary Party committees are responsible for forming a firm link between the intention and feelings of the Party Central Committee with the minds of the employees of the units in their charge, he underscored the need for them to fervently love the people and show all sincerity for them.

He noted that it is the highest honor of the secretaries of the primary Party committees to serve the people with sincerity.

He mentioned that it is the invariable assignment given by the Party Central Committee to the secretaries of the primary Party committees to become the true political workers of the people's Party, the Party devotedly serving the people.

He stressed that the work and humanity of primary Party committee secretaries will as ever be evaluated by how they play the role of an official of the motherly Party devotedly serving the people.

Urging them to be very humble before the people, regard it as their natural gift and the most worthwhile work to go through thick and thin and devotedly work to ensure the best convenience and life of the people, he said that to do so constitutes the main attitude and traits our Party now requires the secretaries of the primary Party committees to have.

Noting that it is not easy to do so, but from now on they should make a devoted forced march for the people in order to preserve the dignity and prestige of our Party, the party for the people and the party serving the people without an equal in the world, he said that it is high time for the Party officials to get closer to the people and treat them more kindly.

Then he referred to the issues the secretaries of the primary Party committees should concentrate on with an emphasis put on discharging the role of true mother and faithful servant.

He went on:

One of them is to train officials, Party members and other working people of their units into socialist persons with fine political and moral traits and the other is to dynamically conduct the organizational and political work to implement the decisions of the Party congress and the plenary meetings of the Party Central Committee. In other words, the first thing necessary is to transform the ideological consciousness of people, and the second thing is to turn into reality our Party's policies of promoting the people's well-being.

This fully complies with the true nature, mission and fighting purpose of our Party.

The secretaries of all the primary Party committees should be well aware of their mission as political officials of the Party serving the people, and make the Party work serve this purpose.

They should prepare the officials, Party members and other working people of their units to be politically and morally sound first of all.

For mothers, nothing brings more pleasure to them than to see their sons and daughters becoming admirable persons capable of devoting themselves to the country and the people, and authentic human beings faithfully serving society and the collectives and keeping moral obligations.

That's why mothers worry so much about their children and sometimes beat them to bring them up to be upright.

A priority task for our Party to do for our people is to bring up all persons to be wonderful beings with the same truthful loving care as those mothers do for their children. Important here is to make people learn and embody high political awareness and the revolutionary outlook on morality.

Kim Jong Un called on the secretaries of primary Party committees to direct their priority efforts to well preparing people in their units so as to fully guarantee them politically and morally before the Party and the revolution. He referred to the principled issues arising in earnestly and effectively doing education of the people to enhance their political awareness and outlook on morality.

Stagnation and retreat in the economic affairs can be recovered but the stagnation and retreat in the education of people would bring irrevocable consequences, he said, stressing the need for the primary Party organizations to effectively engage in the work for enhancing the political and moral consciousness of people before getting concerned about the implementation of economic plans and the state of production.

Education through revolutionary relics and the leadership feats of the Party is like the roots of our Party's ideological work and it can be called the starting point of the ideological education, he said, adding that it is entirely what the secretaries of the primary Party committees should do to make all the Party members and other working people find worth and honor of their life in the path of loyalty and patriotism and educate them to fulfill their moral obligation as human beings before society and the collective.

He defined it as the core of the work of preserving the revolutionary relics to make sure that the resilient bonds between the leader and the people get stronger and our people's reverence for the leader become part of their ideological and moral traits. He underlined the need for the secretaries of the primary Party committees to give precedence to building well and managing and operating regularly the educational bases like Kimilsungism-Kimjongilism Study Hall, room for the education in the revolutionary history and room dedicated to the history of the units and thus make sure that the Party members and other working people nurture loyalty, faith and moral obligation for the Party and carry on the noble fighting spirit displayed by those of the preceding generations of the revolution.

High political awareness and noble moral traits can become stronger and part of life only through organizational life and practice, he said, calling on the secretaries of the primary Party committees to set strong organizational discipline and make organizational and ideological life a regular and standardized one in all cases. He said that it is imperative to make all persons train themselves politically and morally under continued guidance of organization and support by the collective.

Revolutionary practice is like a wonderful school for bringing up people, he said, stressing that the secretaries of the primary Party committees should not just wait for examples of the times to be produced from their units but purposefully organize the work to make all their employees patriotic working people and innovators who cherish love for factory, job and hometown in the revolutionary practices.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should respect and put forward before anyone else those faithfully fulfilling their own duties without wishing for any honor and appraisal, and inspire the masses with the positive example of the said persons so as to increase the ranks of faithful socialist working people, he said, stressing the need for the secretaries to lead the employees of their units to teach and learn from each other, share good experience and admonish against defects so that they would do things beneficial to the collective and display noble and beautiful moral traits.

Kim Jong Un emphasized that the primary Party committee secretaries should wage dynamic organizational and political work for implementing the decisions of the 8th Party Congress and the plenary meetings of the Party Central Committee and bring about substantial achievements. He went on:

The decisions of the Party Congress and the plenary meetings of the Party Central Committee reflect the firm determination and will of our Party to clear our people of their troubles at the earliest date and make them lead more stable and improved living at any cost.

Therefore, our Party officials, secretaries of the primary Party committees should fulfill their responsibilities so that major decisions of the Party bear good fruit.

It is important to definitely turn the struggle for implementing the Party decisions into the work of the popular masses themselves.

What our Party believes most in the present struggle for winning new victory in socialist construction in defiance of unprecedented difficulties and trials is the mental power of the popular masses.

Though right decisions are adopted by the Party, they will remain an empty talk if masses are not motivated.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should make the Party members and other working people turn out voluntarily in implementing the Party's policies by making them clearly understand that those policies are just for the sake of themselves and that no one can replace them in implementing the policies and that only when each unit thoroughly carries out the Party's decisions, the state affairs will be successful and the people's living will improve.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should make sure that all the employees become clearly aware of the work plans of their units in implementing the decisions of the Party Congress and the plenary meetings of the Party Central Committee, and steadily remind them of the plans, not just feeling satisfied with one or two reminding.

They should be strict with the popular masses to make them review the daily implementation of the Party's decisions and get actively engaged in it, regarding them as standard and goal of their work. They should also help the employees display creativity through discussion with them of the innovative ways for the development of their units.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees, bearing this in mind, have to wage effective and active political work to make sure that every worksite brims with the active drive for implementing the Party decisions and the national economic plans.

In order to make the officials, Party members and other working people creditably carry out their tasks with proper stand and attitude to the implementation of the Party decisions, the secretaries of the primary Party committees should effectively do the summing-up and evaluation.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should take beforehand measures to solve problems that may arise in implementing the Party decisions and take care of bottleneck problems themselves to ensure the timely solution so as to keep the masses highly engaged.

Kim Jong Un said that an important issue which the secretaries of the primary Party committees should pay heed to in implementing the Party decisions is to train scientific and technical forces of their units and deepen the Party guidance to make sure that it pays off.

Whether scientific and technical talents pay off or not depends on Party officials.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees who embody well the Party's idea of attaching importance to science and technology and talents and who have sizeable knowledge of science and technology about their own fields can be effective in doing the work with the talents.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should know all the technical forces and talents of their units, encourage them so that each of them could do their share and provide conditions for work and be responsible for their pursuit and results.

The science and technology development plans should be included in the work plans of the primary Party committees as an important items, and through the work for implementing them, the level of the technicians and skilled workers should be raised and their ranks be expanded.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should pay deep attention to the effective operation of sci-tech dissemination bases all the time to make officials and employees strengthen scientific and technological study.

Primary Party committees have to assign sci-tech study task to officials and employees and review their implementation so as to make them regard sci-tech study as the requirement under the Party policies and turn the course of study into the one of steadily raising the level of their technical skill.

They should provide Party support to establish the traits of always giving precedence to science and technology in carrying out the Party decisions and the national economic plans and solving knotty problems by dint of science and technology and through mass technical innovation.

Whether Party decisions given to a unit are implemented or not importantly depends on whether the Party, the administration and technical officials achieve trinity or not, Kim Jong Un said.

He taught the work principles to be maintained by the secretaries of the primary Party committees, leading members in the trinity body, which include the issue of putting forward administrative and technical officials and respecting their opinions, the issue of providing Party support for the employees to accept the instructions of the administrative and technical officials as important ones and carry them out in time.

He also mentioned the importance of welfare supply service in boosting the enthusiasm of the Party members and other working people who turned out in implementing the Party's decisions. Stressing the need for the secretaries of the primary Party committees to bring about evident improvement in the supply service work through strenuous efforts with firm determination to solve the problems concerning the living conditions of the employees at any cost, he said that the supply service work of each unit is what the secretaries of the primary Party committees should be responsible for from A to Z and that the supply service work must be the one from which employees can truly benefit under any conditions.

Pointing out the issue of thoroughly obeying the state unified guidance and management over the economic work and the issue of improving the logistic work while putting the state interests above, he called for rejuvenating the foundation of logistic work to suit to the specific features of one's own unit and changing conditions and for setting rational logistic supply system and method.

Kim Jong Un stressed the need to thoroughly prevent accidents in all units. He said that the secretaries of the primary Party committees should establish the revolutionary system and order while regularly acquainting and examining details of the state of their own units with responsibility, and ensure that all the officials, Party members and other working people work and live as required by the system and order. He also said that the secretaries of the primary Party committees should conduct in a far-sighted way the work of removing all the accident-prone elements from the stand of prioritizing security, calling for taking effective measures to settle faulty issues concerning the life and security of our people in particular.

Kim Jong Un set forth the ways for making the primary Party committees the groups with strong fighting efficiency and cohesion.

Whoever is the secretary of primary Party committee should throw oneself into turning it into a solid political and ideological position, vibrant combat rank of reliably standing guard over a post entrusted to them by the Party and the revolution, he said, calling for making the primary Party committees the integral whole of loyalty sharing the same thinking, intention and action with the Party Central Committee, both in name and reality.

He stressed that the starting point and the general orientation of the work of primary Party committees is to help officials and Party members cherish immutable faith in keeping to the only path of following the Party Central Committee however the situation and the environment may change.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should make the officials and Party members regard it as the most sacred duty and supreme honor to follow the revolutionary idea of the Party Central Committee as the unconditional truth, to rely on it in doing everything and to unconditionally support and uphold with single mind the intention and plan of the Party Central Committee, he said.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should put efforts into staffing well the primary Party committees, political staff of their own units and enhancing the role of their members, Kim Jong Un stressed.

Strengthening the primary Party committees presupposes strengthening Party cells, he said, adding:

When all the Party cells in their units become healthy and vibrant cells, the primary Party committees can become vibrant groups with strong fighting efficiency and cohesion.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should keep deepening the work with the Party cell secretaries responsible for the cell work, not forgetting it even a minute.

Those core members who are supported and trusted by the Party members should be made to take charge of the Party cells. The secretaries of the primary Party committees should exact high demand on the Party cell secretaries so that they can put all efforts into their work while constantly reminding themselves of the 10-point tasks and 12-point traits of Party cell secretaries, and strive to enhance the level of their working ability.

In order to make the Party cells healthy and vibrant ones closely knitted in the bonds of kinship, it is necessary to create examples, generalize experience and put all the Party cells in each unit on a height required by the Party Central Committee.

He said that as they are also members of the Party cells, the secretaries of the primary Party committees should give positive influence on the Party members and help the secretaries of the Party cells by setting an example in the manner of treating the Party cell secretaries and in the attitude of receiving Party assignments and executing them.

Saying that the work of preparing the Party members and other working people politically and morally and the work of implementing the Party decisions depend on how the secretaries of the primary Party committees conduct the work with people, he taught the issues for the secretaries of the primary Party committees to fundamentally improve the work with the people.

Saying that in order to do the work with people well, the secretaries of the primary Party committees should find themselves among the employees to correctly examine their mind and personality, he stressed that they should strive to deepen feelings with the employees and lend an ear to their honest voices and appeal while doing work together with them and talking to them all the time.

He called upon the secretaries of the primary Party committees to conduct the work with people in a creative way to suit to their characters.

He also called upon them to steadily search the effective ways and use them flexibly, mindful that they can not expect any achievement if they use stereotyped way in doing the work with people.

He said that just as a mother speaks differently to her son and daughter and treats them differently in their growth stages, the secretaries of the primary Party committees should do the work with people creatively to suit to the characters of each person and the given situations though their employees number hundreds and thousands.

He indicated in detail the ways of doing the work with different groups of people like the youth who are strong in the enterprising spirit and are always vibrant, women who are always considerate of their children and family life and those who made a mistake in their work and life.

He called upon the secretaries of the primary Party committees to take warm care of their employees.

He said that what is common in the work of those units in which everything goes well is that the secretaries of the primary Party committees strive to solve even one more problem arising in the living of the employees while paying deep attention to it.

Saying that employees are moved when the secretaries of primary Party committees call in on them to ask about difficulties and sufferings, and they feel very grateful for the Party officials and set store by their care when they get to know that the Party officials take pains for them, he called on the secretaries of primary Party committees to take warmer care of the employees and dedicate sincerity to helping them out of difficulties, always paying deep attention to them.

He said that the secretaries of primary Party committees should make it their habit to relieve the employees of their sufferings and resolve their knotty problems at any cost, conscious of their duty as the servants of the people, and kindly treat all the employees as family members, just like a mother who treats her children without discrimination.

He stressed the need for the secretaries of the primary Party committees to maintain the principle while seriously and maturely doing the work with people.

Saying that it is the greatest taboo to regard the words of one or two persons as absolute or thoughtlessly deal with the issues arising among people on the basis of superficial view or guess, he underlined the need for the secretaries of primary Party committees to do the work with people in an unbiased and experienced manner, never blinded by subjectivity and prejudice.

He urged them to acquire a habit of repeatedly scrutinizing necessary information before making decisions on the issues related with the political destiny of people and prudently resolving them in consideration of the interests of the Party and the revolution.

Saying that for them to take warm care of and respect people never means that they should remain good-natured, blindly appeasing them, overlooking their faults and currying favor with them, he called on the secretaries of the primary Party committees to treat the employees with warm humanity and educate them in a principled manner while waging a severe struggle against negative elements.

He said that the secretaries of the primary Party committees should acquire high qualifications in order to do the work with people well.

Stressing that today's socialist construction, whereby the grandiose goal is being accomplished in the arduous and difficult situation, requires the secretaries of primary Party committees, tasked with educating, organizing and mobilizing people, to possess high abilities as never before, he said that the main task for improving their abilities is to be well versed in the Party's line and policy and proficient in the Party work.

The secretaries of the primary Party committees should put above anything else the study of the documents on the Party Congress and the plenary meetings of the Party Central Committee that comprehensively deal with the Party's line and policies, and completely grasp them by repeatedly studying them on a regular basis so that they can be able to freely explain them among the masses, he noted.

He called on the secretaries of primary Party committees to make it a part of their everyday life to read the Party organ in order to steadily improve their political and practical qualifications by grasping the ideas and intentions of the Party Central Committee on a normal basis and learning the methods of implementing the Party policies.

He stressed the need for them to continue intensifying the study for the Party work, learn more professional knowledge for their sectors and knowledge and technique for their units and steadily acquire lots of many-sided knowledge with the open-minded attitude as required by the developing era.

He underlined the need for them to gain experience and draw lessons from their work and have meticulous organizing ability, strong control and implacable executive ability.

Noting that if the secretaries of the primary Party committees are to do the work with people well, they should have noble popular traits, he said that they will be disliked by people if they have a rude style of work, although they are politically and ideologically sound and have excellent working ability.

He stressed that high Party spirit, fidelity to principle and noble humanity constitute the main traits befitting the secretaries of the primary Party committees that captivate people.

He called on them to have the warm heart to greatly love people and take sincere care of them and lead them with the stand to bear responsibility for the present life of the employees and their future.

Noting that modesty, an unassuming character and uprightness are essential traits of the primary Party committee secretaries as they do the work with people at all times, he said that they should always treat employees courteously and in a free-hearted manner with a smile on their faces and lead a simple life, not pursuing selfish interests and desires.

He said that they should keep their appearance neat and clean, use polite language and make positive efforts to have lots of cultural attainments and optimistic sentiments capable of touching people and creating an optimistic climate among them.

He specially stressed the need for the Party committee secretaries of ministries and national institutions and the secretaries of ri Party committees to enhance their responsibilities and roles.

Saying that the Party committee secretaries of ministries and national institutions are responsible for the Party work of the state administrative guidance institutions organizing and guiding the work for implementing the lines and policies of the Party nationwide, he called on them to lead all officials of their institutions to steadily cultivate themselves through their Party life, political life, and to properly plan and guide the work for the implementation of the Party policies, bearing in mind that they have very responsible tasks in a very responsible period.

He said that the Party Central Committee attaches great significance to enhancing the role of the Party committee secretaries of ministries and national institutions at present when epochal progress should be made in the overall state work and practical successes be achieved in the development of the national economy every year.

Noting that the duty of secretaries of ri Party committees is very heavy in the historic struggle for giving a complete face-lift to the countryside, he called on the secretaries of ri Party committees across the country to redouble their efforts, cherishing the high honor and sense of responsibility for conducting the Party work in the great new era for rural revolution.

He also stressed the need for departments of the Party Central Committee and provincial, city and county Party committees to pay deep attention to the work for enhancing the role of the secretaries of primary Party committees.

He underscored the need to direct efforts to the work for consolidating the ranks of primary Party committee secretaries and properly conduct the work for educating them and raising their practical abilities.

Noting that the Party Central Committee should set it as its policy and a state policy to translate the desire of people into reality and ensure that people benefit from the policy by letting all the primary Party organizations thoroughly implement it, he said that to do so is not only the action method peculiar to our Party fully discharging its duty as the Party serving the people but also the idea on the role of the primary Party committees and the idea of attaching importance to the primary Party committees advocated by the Party Central Committee.

Saying that the true appearance of the primary Party committee secretaries is characterized by the attitude of the servant who puts his heart and soul into bringing welfare to the people as much as possible, being thoughtful and meticulous like mother, he said that all the secretaries of the primary Party committees should become such servants to make sure that the Party lives up to the expectations of the people who have lavished their praise of it as the motherly Party despite the stern tempest of history and remains faithful to its political idea and historic mission as the Party serving the people.

He ardently called on all secretaries of the primary Party committees to turn out in the sacred struggle for providing our people with a happy life as early as possible and turning our country into a great powerful socialist state, well aware of their duty as political officials of the Party serving the people.

The important conclusion made by the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un at the 2nd Conference of Secretaries of Primary Committees of the WPK serves as a powerful militant banner for turning all the basic Party organizations into the elite ranks of loyalty with the organizing ability and fighting efficiency and vitality as required by a new era of overall national prosperity and for strongly encouraging all the Party members and other working people to the drive for implementing the grandiose struggle programme indicated at the Party Congress under the uplifted banner of great Kimilsungism-Kimjongilism.

Respected Comrade Kim Jong Un's Closing Address at Second Conference of Secretaries of Primary Committees of WPK

The respected Comrade Kim Jong Un made the following closing address at the Second Conference of Primary Committees of the Workers' Party of Korea:

Comrade secretaries of primary Party committees,

The Second Conference of Secretaries of Primary Committees of the Workers' Party of Korea, which is of great significance in vigorously propelling the implementation of the decisions of the Eighth Congress of the Party, has been held successfully amid the special expectations of all Party members and the high political enthusiasm of all its participants.

This conference has set up another milestone in infusing fresh vigour into the strengthening of the entire Party and ensuring more definite realization of the Party's leadership over the overall socialist construction by rearming the secretaries of primary Party committees, who are in charge of basic organizations and major combat units of the Party, with the ideas, intentions and strategic policies of our Party Central Committee and awakening them so that they can make redoubled efforts.

It has reviewed and analyzed the five-year work for strengthening primary Party committees and advanced important tasks facing their secretaries at present in the successful fulfillment of the sacred mission of our Party, which exists for the people and which serves them, and the ways for implementing the tasks.

Seeing the participants engrossed in the discussion of the agenda with sincere attitude throughout the days of the conference, I have felt their ardent will to absorb to the full the ideas of the Party Central Committee and apply them in the work of their committees so as to bring about a substantial revolutionary improvement in their work. I am gratified by it.

This conference will be etched in the history of our Party building as a meaningful conference in that it has provided a detailed action programme and practical weapon for strengthening the primary committees of the entire Party as required by our developing revolution, and has enriched the theory of our Party building.

Comrade secretaries of primary Party committees,

At this conference the Party Central Committee has advanced the important idea that the secretaries of all primary Party committees should become genuine political workers of the people's party, their "servant" party.

Primary Party committees may differ from one another in the composition of the Party membership of their units, the sectors they are in charge of and the scope of their work, but the basic duties of their secretaries are the same and clear.

Secretaries of primary Party committees should approach and serve the people with the heart of a mother and with the attitude of their true servant, and carry out the Party's people-oriented policies without fail - this is the main spirit and main idea of the current conference.

However excellent our Party's people-oriented policies may be and however clear the ways of implementing them may be, they cannot be carried out effectively and the victorious advance of our socialist construction will be delayed as much if the primary Party organizations fail to play their roles properly.

This is why we liken a Party congress to a design institute and a primary Party committee to a building unit in construction, and proceeding from this, we attach importance to the roles played by secretaries of primary Party committees.

Secretaries of our primary Party committees should naturally conform and subordinate their thinking and action to the plans, intentions, and strategy and tactics of the Party Central Committee. Only then can the advanced struggle tasks be executed one by one and the people will enjoy the resultant benefits.

It is easier said than done for secretaries of primary Party committees to fulfill their responsibilities and duties satisfactorily today when we are faced with many obstacles and difficulties.

They should always be mindful of the spirit of the current conference and the tasks it has advanced for them, and deal with their heavy duties with extraordinary determination, ardent passion and unyielding fortitude.

Those who have been newly appointed should buckle down to their work with firm resolve from the outset, whereas those who have a longer term of service should work in an innovative way with renewed determination.

All of them should be better-versed in the Party's lines and policies than anybody else and observe, judge and deal with all issues with them as the standard. And they should ensure the progress of their respective units and perfect execution of the Party's policies through steady thinking, scrupulous organization, dynamic political work and personal examples.

At present the loyalty to the Party and the revolution on the part of secretaries of primary Party committees finds concentrated expression in their absolute and devoted service for the people.

Today our people, as they did yesterday, place their invariable trust in the Party alone, while overcoming all manner of trials and difficulties with an unyielding spirit.

If we are to provide these great and excellent people with a life and wellbeing that is an envy of the world, our Party should shoulder a greater burden and push ahead with the revolution and construction at a faster speed.

Instead of trying simply to endure the unheard-of conditions under which no one else would stand even a day, we are forcefully struggling to attain the ambitious and convincing targets and future we have set and designed for ourselves, and this is just aimed at bringing the centuries-old ideals and dreams of our people into reality at an earlier date; and our Party is unfolding a strong campaign to bring about a revolution in building up the whole ranks of cadres, and this is also aimed at helping them fulfill their responsibilities and duties they have assumed for this historic work as true, faithful servants of the people.

Secretaries of primary Party committees should not forget even a moment that they are there just for the people, and that they should devote their all for the people.

Although the people understand the actual situation of the country and do not express their agonies, they should go deeper among the people, and prove themselves worthy of their expectations with warm human feeling and self-forgetful devotion and further deepen the people's support to and trust in the Party.

When they read the people's minds, regard their agonies as their own and devote their true hearts to solve as many problems as possible for them, suffering mental anguish on their own, the masses will feel in their appearances the helping hand and warm care of our Party, a party of the people and a "servant" party for them.

I want to emphasize one more. They should bear in mind that if they are improper in their behavior before the masses, the masses will give a wide berth to them and not follow them.

Before educating the masses, they should first be careful in their behavior and purposefully correct the mistakes, if any, guard against the slightest elements of abuse of power, bureaucratism and corruption, and be honest in acquiring qualities appropriate to a genuine political worker of our Party.

Comrade secretaries of primary committees of the Party,

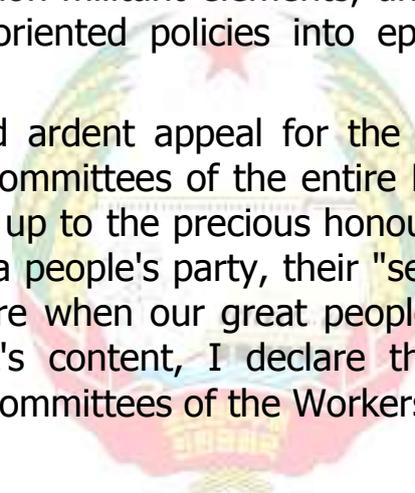

The ideals we have set are great and the struggle tasks are gigantic; and the challenges and obstacles ahead of our advance and development are formidable.

The contemporary tasks to which we have decided to commit ourselves must be accomplished on any account with our own hands and with a renewed struggle that requires greater efforts than those we have devoted so far.

He is a genuine communist who finds the true joy of life and the worth of making a revolution on the road for the people even though it may be an untrodden, arduous path.

Secretaries of primary Party committees and all other Party workers should renew their determination and fortitude, and show the people their fresh look by waging a vigorous do-or-die battle while boldly eradicating non-revolutionary and non-militant elements, and thus turning the Party's intentions and people-oriented policies into epoch-making realities year after year.

Issuing a militant and ardent appeal for the participants and all other secretaries of primary committees of the entire Party to launch a dynamic struggle in order to live up to the precious honour and heavy responsibility of a political worker of a people's party, their "servant" party, and to bring earlier the brilliant future when our great people will lead a cultured and rich life to their heart's content, I declare the Second Conference of Secretaries of Primary Committees of the Workers' Party of Korea, closed.
